Release your Jaw, Your Voice, Your Whole Self

Practical applications using strategies & concepts from The Feldenkrais Method®

TOUCH TO INFORM Seminars focus on the neurological, mechanical and healing aspects of movement as thought of by Moshe Feldenkrais, D.Sc. Participants learn through sensing and create practical applications from the strategies and concepts presented

Release your Jaw, Your Voice, Your Whole Self

Clenching teeth is often a 'deep-seated' pattern of action that causes damage to the teeth, can be the cause of headaches, sensitivity to light and neck pain. The process for sensory learning developed by Moshe Feldenkrais, D.Sc. creates possibilities for shifts in even 'deep-seated' patterns.

Engaging Awareness to the Nervous System's hold on muscular patterns, learning to keep muscles at 'physiological rest' and using anatomical support from pelvis, ribs and spine for the head and the temporomandibular joint are the KEYS for improving Temporomandibular Joint Dysfunction (TMJD). You learn the effectiveness of working indirectly in order to Release Your Jaw, Your Voice, Your Whole Self.

TOUCH TO INFORM Seminar, Release your Jaw, uses many under experienced lessons from the Feldenkrais® Library for eyes, palate, voice and breathing. Through fine-tuned variations of one's habitual actions, posture, and other deeply rooted patterns, you can create new possibilities—new patterns for action. Learning to use TOUCH TO INFORM offers a quiet entrance into many unknown habitual patterns and can enhance therapeutic outcomes for many clients.

Using "TOUCH TO INFORM" can lower hyper-tonicity while engaging your client. The Feldenkrais Method® for neuro-learning facilitates the ability to recognize habitual patterns of action, allows time to quiet those actions and, through inquiry, aids in the discovery of alternative movement patterns that support more ease and efficiency, in movement and thought.
